ROCKFORD PLANS WELCOME TO RESCUED FLIERS

MYSTERY AIR TRIP ENDS IN AFRICA TODAY

Three Frenchmen Are Supposed to Be on Way to America

BULLETIN

Casablanca, Morocco, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Yellow Canary plane, which hopped off with Jean Assolant, Rene LeFevre and Armand Lotti from Le Bourget field near Paris this morning, landed here at 4:40 P. M. today.

BULLETIN

Paris, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The flying sergeants Jean Assolant and Rene LeFevre, who took off from Le Bourget field this morning on a transatlantic flight, were sighted at 9:35 A. M. by a fishing boat in latitude 44.50 north and longitude 14.7. They were heading westward.

The report was taken as an indication that the fliers were heading for the Azores with the intention of reaching the United States.

Their general course had been southwest from Le Bourget field until they were clear of the coast of France, after which, it was apparent, they had changed to a general westerly course.

The fishing vessel, which is named the Dauphin, sent the report concerning the plane by wireless to its owners at Port Archon, the message added:

"Assolant headed west, making high speed, flying high."

Le Bourget, France, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Their destination shrouded in mystery, three Frenchmen sped toward the southwest today in a bright yellow monoplane, the Canary Bird, on a transatlantic flight. Whether their destination was New York or South America remained to be seen.

After a succession of postponements and false starts due to the more or less volatile temperaments of her pilots, Flying Sergeants Jean Assolant and Rene LeFevre of the French army, the Canary Bird slipped out of its cage this morning and the mystery began. Armand Lotti, their backer accompanied them.

Commandant Weiss, the airman's superior officer, said they were going to the Azores and if the weather was favorable they would head for Halifax.

May Go To Rio Janeiro
Chief Pilot Paillard of the Bernard Company, which built the plane, announced after the takeoff that the fliers, because of adverse winds over the Atlantic, were going over a course of some 5,600 miles to Rio Janeiro; they would go by way of Bakar, Senegal and Pernambuco, Brazil, in an attempt to carry off the prize offered for the first non-stop flight from Paris to Rio Janeiro.

Commandant Weiss said if the wind was unfavorable at the Azores the plane would probably go down to Dakar presumably for a jump across the Atlantic from there, although that feat was never in their plans before.

The Canary Bird took off at 7:04 A. M. It developed splendid speed, pilots of the military escort planes said when they returned to Paris. They had intended to follow the transatlantic fliers to the sea but turned back thirty miles from Le Bourget because they could not keep the pace of 115 miles an hour the Canary Bird set.

Passenger Aboard
In contrast with the preceding three other mornings when they were scheduled to start everything today went off like clockwork from the successful smuggling aboard of their passenger and backer, Armand Lotti, to the takeoff. The Canary Bird succeeded in getting off the ground before it was half way down the field. The plane circled northward, disappeared in the mist and then returned to circle over the field after which the fliers turned southwest.

Lotti, who is the son of a well known Paris hotelman, not wishing his parents to know he intended to fly, had attempted to conceal his identity. Yesterday morning, however, when an unsuccessful attempt was made to start he was obliged to alight from the plane before the crowd and was recognized. Since then he has been afraid to go home and he slept all night in the hangar beside the plane.

Remained Hidden
Lotti climbed aboard the machine before it was wheeled out and remained hidden under a heap of rags during the preparations. Just prior to the start mechanics forgot he was hidden under the rags and dumped a pile of provisions, coats and instruments on him. He was even trampled on somewhat, but he did not emerge from his hiding place until the plane started down the runway. Then Lotti was seen through the windows flying.

Modern Damon Finds Self in Jail When Friend Fails Him

Del Rio, Tex., Sept. 4.—(AP)—John Crosby, Jr. of Del Rio and Villa Acuna, Mexico, is in a Mexican jail charged with a slaying he did not commit because of a Mexican law which permits a modern Damon to take the place of his friend at the bar of justice. Crosby's friend, Tom Whitehead, a Del Rio rancher, was arrested last Saturday after a fight in Villa Acuna, in which John C. Kastner of San Antonio, was seriously injured that he died. Whitehead was released when Crosby pledged his own liberty that his friend would appear for trial. Whitehead did not appear yesterday and Crosby was arrested and will be taken to Piedras Negras, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, Texas, for trial on the charge filed against his friend.

JOHN COOLIDGE SETS FORTH TO SEEK LIFE JOB

Secrecy Surrounding Plans of Son of President

Superior, Wis., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Once to every man comes the time he must start the quest for his workaday destiny. The time had come for John Coolidge today.

Somewhere enroute to the east, beckoning with opportunities, the son of the nation's President was speeding toward the beginning of a career. Always to youth has this time of life meant the commencement of high adventure; always to parents it has been an hour of acute sadness.

Mrs. Coolidge's eyes glistened Sunday when she told the blind pastor of the little church on the Brule that it was to be John's last Sabbath there. Mr. Coolidge, never demonstrative, assisted in preparations for his son's departure yesterday.

John Coolidge faced his future under circumstances unlike those confronting most American youths; circumstances that carried both advantages and disadvantages. As the son of the President of the United States there were many offers presumably open to him. On the other hand, there was the inevitable publicity accompanying the movements of one whose father guides the destinies of a world power.

Every effort had been made, however to remove as far as possible this handicap. His plans for the immediate future were carefully guarded.

It was generally understood he had arranged a short stop in New York. Hartford, Conn., was believed to be his destination from New York. At Hartford, he would meet Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Governor of Connecticut, on her return from a European journey.

Before settling down to work, he planned, according to the understanding here, to accompany Miss Trumbull to Maine where she is to join her father, summing there.

Trans-Continental Air Race Tomorrow

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Thirty one of more than 75 planes entered in the National transcontinental air races starting tomorrow, were on the field today.

They were mostly planes entered in Class A, largest of the three divisions in point of numbers, which will be the first to get away, starting at 5 a. m. tomorrow. Two other groups, class B and part of class C, start Thursday at 5 a. m. The non-stop race, for planes in class C, gets under way Sept. 12. Non-stop craft must have room for at least a pilot and a passenger.

Prizes totaling $57,500 will be awarded in the three divisions. The same stops will be made enroute by the planes in the three divisions. The race will take five days, overnight stops being made at Columbus, O., Kansas City, Mo., Fort Worth, Tex., El Paso, Tex., and Yuma, Ariz. Thirty minute stops during the day are to be made at Harrisburg, Pa., McKeesport, Pa., Terre Haute, Ind., St. Louis, Mo., Wichita, Kan., Oklahoma City, Okla., Abilene, Tex., Midland, Tex., Pecos, Tex., Lordsburg, N. M., Tucson, Ariz., and San Diego, Cal.

Clarence Chamberlin, one of the last minute entries in class A, who was late appearing for an examination of license, load check and certification of his entry, had a last chance to arrange these details today.

Col. Art Goebel and Harry Tucker, who recently set the non-stop flight record from coast to coast, are favored to win the non-stop race.

AGED BANKER DEAD
Champaign, Ill., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Daniel Morrissey, Sr., 84, banker and real estate owner, died suddenly at home here last night.

Jack Cowley spent Sunday in Chicago visiting his mother and sisters.

FAIL TO PROVE NORSEMEN EVER SETTLED ARCTIC

MacMillan's Expedition Returned to States After Long Tour

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 4.—(AP)—The end of Commander Donald B. MacMillan's eleventh venture into the Arctic and sub-Arctic was drawing near today with one of the principal objects of the exploration still undetermined—proof that Norsemen ever reached Labrador.

The expedition aboard the schooner Bowdoin put in here yesterday for fuel and then prepared to continue on to Wisconsin, Me., from whence it sailed in June, 1927.

But although the explorer brought back no conclusive evidence to confirm tradition of early Scandinavian settlers, his party did succeed in fixing the boundaries of Arctic plant, fish and bird life at a line much farther north than had been previously supposed.

Included among the 6,000 specimens aboard the schooner were many varieties hitherto not thought to exist in those regions.

The adventurers inquired eagerly for news of the Bremen flight and the finding of the Greater Rockford fliers, for whom the Bowdoin was only prevented assisting in search by lack of fuel.

A story of how the wreck of the Hudson Bay Company's steamer, Bay Rupert, had proven the salvation of starving Eskimo settlements of northern Labrador and of a visit to Kodlunarn Island in Frobisher Bay, the first attempted settlement of white men in the sub-Arctic, were high lights of the many narratives told by the Bowdoin's Company.

visited Gettysburg and Harrisburg, Virginia, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Atlantic City, Niagara Falls and points of interest in West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and the Dominion of Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Campbell and their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Campbell of Chicago visited over Labor Day with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Campbell.

TWO OGLE CO. PEOPLE MET DEATH UNDER WHEELS FAST INTERURBAN CAR ON SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. George Frey of Forrester Victims Tragedy

(Telegraph Special Service)

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. George Frey of Forrester are dead and their son, Birdsal, driver of the Ford sedan in which they were on their way to spend several days camping, is in a Rockford hospital, suffering from severe injuries but will recover. The car in which they were riding was completely demolished when it was struck by a Rockford-Freepoint interurban car near Ridgott Sunday morning about 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Frey, 48, was instantly killed and her husband, aged 51, died while being rushed to a hospital at Peconica.

The Freys had driven into a private lane to pick some berries and were returning to the road when the son, Birdsal, who was at the wheel, drove directly in front of a speeding Rockford-bound interurban car. Gus Ring, motorman, was badly cut about the face and hands from broken glass. The son was rushed to a Rockford hospital and was unaware of the death of his parents until this morning. An inquest will be conducted over the remains of Mr. and Mrs. Frey at Peconica this evening at 7 o'clock.

Double funeral services will be conducted from the Lutheran church at Forrester Wednesday afternoon. Rev. H. A. Wolm officiating and interment will be in the White Oak cemetery.

Judge Zick Deals With Rockford Men

Three Rockford men, taken in a raid of a miniature distillery near Byron, a few weeks ago, were sentenced by Judge Leon Zick in the Ogle county court this morning for manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor, and two others, taken in the raid and at liberty on bonds of $1,500, who failed to appear in court today are now being sought by the officers, while their bonds have been declared forfeited by Judge Zick. The three sentenced were: Anthony Morena, 21, and Jasper Curlee, 26, who were fined $1,000 and sentenced to six months at the state farm at Joliet; and Elbert Caruso, 34, who drew a $1,200 fine and six months on the state farm. The two being sought by the authorities are: Frank Moor and Peter Louis.

Simonson on charges of operating motor vehicles without valid licenses.

Senator Schall Meets the President

Superior, Wis., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Minnesota politics came under the observation of President Coolidge today when an appointment had been arranged for Senator Schall of that state to call on him at the executive offices.

Mr. Schall, who is listed as a Republican in the Congressional Directory and who consistently supported the administration in the last session of Congress, nevertheless has announced that he would withhold his support of the presidential candidacy of the latter's stand on agriculture.

President Coolidge was known to be pleased with the Senator's exchange views with the Senator although he had no intention of undertaking today a thorough survey of political conditions in the neighboring state.

Sister of Mrs. Guy Miller Died Monday

Mrs. C. E. Carroll of Chicago, sister of Mrs. Guy Miller of this city, died at her home last evening, after a lingering illness of about a year. Beside her husband, C. E. Carroll, Mrs. Carroll leaves to mourn her passing two children, Charles, Jr., and Virginia; and two sisters, Mrs. Guy Miller of Dixon, and Mrs. Dave Wangersheim, Chicago.

Mrs. Carroll's death is mourned deeply by her relatives and many friends, for she possessed a lovely personality and many admirable traits of character and bore her last illness with a patient sweetness. The funeral services will be held Thursday morning, with interment in Mount Greenwood cemetery.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

MENDOTA MAN FINED.

Robert Houghton of Mendota was fined $100 and costs by Justice J. O. Shaulis in police court this morning while in an intoxicated condition on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while making a sharp turn, throwing Clarence Hill into the water. Mr. Hill calmly swam to the upturned boat and with the assistance of others brought the little speeder to the docks.

There was plenty of entertainment and a number of thrilling moments. The high peak of excitement was reached when the speed boat "Blue Baby Stepper," out for a practice run, capsized while making a sharp turn, throwing Clarence Hill into the water. Mr. Hill calmly swam to the upturned boat and with the assistance of others brought the little speeder to the docks.

The Y. M. C. A. Boys Band, under the direction of Joe Glavin, dispensed music during the afternoon and provided delightful entertainment. This organization deserves credit for the splendid spirit displayed in furnishing music for occasions of this kind.

Life Saving Demonstration

An unusual feature was the life saving demonstration by George Powell, Red Cross field worker, assisted by Mr. Bills of Sterling. Mr. Powell explained in detail the various rescue methods as well as methods of resuscitation. This was followed by practical demonstrations in the water and a comic presentation of life saving concluded the number. Mr. Powell has a winning personality and a happy method of working and therefore delighted all.

Speed boat races are new to most of our Dixon people and they proved good entertainment for the big crowd. Tim Sullivan, veteran official, was the official starter and handled the pistol and flag to the complete satisfaction of all. Early in the race, Fred Gardner of Rochelle in the "Sizzer," gained the lead and had little difficulty in maintaining it.

The water carnival was engineered by the officers of the local Y. M. C. A. and the list of officials included: Tim Sullivan, George Shaw, F. D. Palmer, George Weyant, C. M. Yohn, physical director, and J. C. Koller, general secretary of the local Y. Lehigh Dixon, Tom Mitchell, John Leahy, Bert Whitcomb and Ed Graybill.

Day Was Cold
The success of the program was due to the pluck and courage of the participants in spite of the chilly, icicle wind from the north. The shivering swimmers and divers, kept Mayor Palmer busy passing out the awards, though many entries scratched.

The speed boats furnished many thrills and Clarence Hill's spill caused no little excitement for the crowd. Gardner of Rochelle won the speedboat event in a flashy demonstration of speed. Anderson, driving the little "Wasp" was second, while Heymaker came in third with "Miss Rochelle." Gardner was presented the beautiful Park Board Trophy by Mayor Palmer.

Herbert Glessner, in his long white canoe, won the spectacular canoe race. The crowd yelled loudly as "Honey" stepped on it at the finish of the race and won by a paddle length from the crack Rockford man, Delbert Blackburn came in a close third.

Schertner won the Senior fancy diving from a group of fine divers, while the Junior diving was won by Simonson. Little Lloyd Muzzey started the spectators by coming in a close second to Crabtree. Chas. Kerz won a hard fought 50 yard swim from a large group of entrants.

Ladies Were Plucky.
Much credit is due to the few of the fair sex who ventured forth in the icy waters yesterday. Miss Alice Wilson won the girls 50 yd. swim.

Nelson Farm Home is Robbed Sunday Noon

Sheriff Ward Miller was summoned to the farm home of Jacob Hurd, who resides about three miles south of Nelson and whose home was entered about noon Sunday and thoroughly ransacked. Drawers were emptied of their contents and every room in the house was visited, the intruder evidently seeking only money.

The clothing of two hired men was strewn about on the floor of their rooms, one of the men losing $20 and about five dollars being taken from other rooms. Two suits of heavy underwear and a razor were also missing. The sheriff and his deputies searched the railroad yards at Nelson for a stranger wearing a light cap and coat and blue overalls, who was seen walking north on the tracks from near the Hurd home a few minutes before the robbery occurred, but were unable to locate him.

Infant Son Called

Funeral services over the remains of Theodore Moeller, ten months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Moeller, were held from the family home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. Turley Stephenson, pastor of the First Methodist church officiating. Interment was in Oakwood. The little one passed away Sunday morning at the home of its parents, 107 East Eighth street after an illness with complications.

Ask Separation

Mexico City, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A petition signed by 140 prominent Catholic laymen asking amendment of the religious laws to establish "complete religious liberty in Mexico and make the church and state independent" was before a senate committee today for consideration.

The petition was read in the Senate last night and turned over to the committee on constitutional provisions for a report on it.

WATER CARNIVAL MONDAY PROVED GREAT SUCCESS

Large Crowd Witnessed the Races and Water Contests Here

Dixon's first annual water carnival was the outstanding feature of Labor Day and the promoters proved conclusively that water sports can and should have a large place in the recreational life of the community.

The thousands of spectators came early and remained for the last event of the program.

There was plenty of entertainment and a number of thrilling moments. The high peak of excitement was reached when the speed boat "Blue Baby Stepper," out for a practice run, capsized while making a sharp turn, throwing Clarence Hill into the water. Hassell and Cramer Express Thanks to Danish Government

Copenhagen, Denmark, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A message of thanks from Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, American aviators who were rescued after an emergency landing in Greenland, was received by the Greenland administration of the Danish government today. It read:

"We wish to express in some measure our appreciation of the generous action of the Danish government and of your own department, for the vigor and thoroughness with which the search for us was prosecuted. We hope to express our obligation in person."

The administration also received a radiogram from the manager of the Julianehaab Station in Greenland saying that both aviators were in excellent physical condition.

THREE MISHAPS IN TRAFFIC IN NEWS OF TODAY

Driver of One Auto Pays Fine Result of His Accident

A Studebaker sedan driven by Mrs. Arnold Schultz, 517 East Third street, was considerably damaged this morning at 9:30 at the intersection of Hennepin avenue and Third street.

A Graham-Paige sedan owned by Mike Brown, who resides east of the city and driven by Arthur Higgen, is said to have failed to stop, when he drove south across Third street and crashed into the rear of the Studebaker sedan, throwing it against the curb. Mrs. Schultz suffered bruises about the body and was removed to her home suffering from shock.

Sign was arrested by Chief of Police V. E. Huber and taken to the police station, where he was fined $3 and costs by Justice J. O. Shaulis for failing to stop at the intersection. Both cars were damaged to such an extent that they had to be taken to garages.

At 10 o'clock, a Buick coupe driven by T. J. Miller, Jr., was slightly damaged in an unusual accident on Galena avenue just south of the First street intersection when a long ladder which was tied on a car parked on the west side of the street, rolled directly in the pathway of the coupe and became entangled in the wheels. The ladder was demolished, but the cars were only slightly damaged.

Two cars were badly damaged yesterday afternoon at the curve near Chuck's Inn on route 2 north of Grand Detour about 2:30 o'clock when a Ford coupe driven by Sidney Van Duyn of Kewanee was thrown into a ditch when struck by a Chevrolet coupe driven by Charles H. Peters of Chicago. The Kewanee car was thrown in such a manner that it landed on the radiator of the other.

Says Lincoln Had Southern Breeding

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 4—(AP)—

Abraham Lincoln—Virginia!

This designation makes the latest biography of Lincoln, done by Frederick Trevor Hill, unique among Lincoln biographies. "More than anything else," a Virginian, in this biography, Hill accounts for the president who went from Springfield and whose body reposes here.

"It is a strange fact," he says, "and one that is often forgotten or slurred—that Lincoln, in whom all the hopes of the North were centered during the Civil War, was a southerner both by birth and inheritance. Indeed he was, in a way, a born and bred Virginian, for his native state—Kentucky—was owned by Virginia up to within a few years of his birth and the bulk of its population was recruited from the Old Dominion."

"Certainly all Lincoln's immediate ancestors were Virginians, either by adoption or grace. On both sides of his family he was closely affiliated with the great commonwealth whose right to be known as the 'Mother of Presidents' remains unchallenged."

"Of course Lincoln can no longer properly be claimed by any state or section of the country. He is a national heritage belonging neither to Virginia nor Kentucky, nor to Indiana nor to Illinois but to the ages."

"Nevertheless, in attempting to make any just estimate of his character and services, it is helpful to remember that he was not a product of the north, but of the south. And if local pride must be satisfied, he was, more than anything else, a Virginian."

Mr. Hill entitled his book "Lincoln, Emancipator of the Nation."

HER HANDS, KNEES LIMBS SWOLLEN; PAINS AGONIZING

Rheumatism Had Dixon Lady in Miserable, Crippled State Before She Took Gly-Cas.

Day after day, week after week and month after month, well-known and respected Dixon men and women have continued to praise this great new vegetable, compound, Gly-Cas, at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, as the only preparation actually reach and relieve their suffering. Admitting that there have been many medicines introduced in this city and vicinity now realize from actual experience that nothing has ever been brought to Dixon before to even compare with this amazing Gly-Cas as a treatment for stomach, liver, blood, nerve troubles, neuritis, rheumatism.

"Gly-Cas is surely a most remarkable remedy for rheumatism—in the past four years I had tried most all the preparations for this affliction, but Gly-Cas is the only one that benefited me," states Mrs. Mary Norton, respected Dixon lady living at 1018 Long Ave.

"I was simply in a terrible condition from rheumatism when I began taking Gly-Cas," she continued. "In the many four years I had taken medicines—prescribed and otherwise—and they did me no good at all. My whole system had become poisoned. Every joint and muscle in my body seemed stiff and sore. My hands, limbs and knees were swollen out of proportions and were so sore I could hardly use them. I was unable to close my hands, in their swollen condition and the fact is, I could just move around the house. I was so very crippled up with this rheumatism."

"After my past suffering, it is wonderful how Gly-Cas has benefited me. After two months of taking this medicine I am an altogether different person. The awful swelling in the affected parts of my body is practically all gone now and the soreness and stiffness likewise. I am doing my own work these days and I find I am able to accomplish things I once thought I could never do again. And not only has my rheumatic condition been eliminated, but I actually feel wonderful now. My whole system has been benefited by Gly-Cas and as I said before, it is remarkable the results this medicine can produce. There is no equal for Gly-Cas in my opinion."

Gly-Cas sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

THE PLOWBOY'S YEAR—
(Written for the Christian Science Monitor)

The plowboy gathers violets
In spring his cap to deck
Before the furrow lines he sets
So straight from hedge to beck.

And whistling on a summer morn
With heavy laden wain,
He plucks sweet roses that adorn
The hedgerows in the lane.

Then autumn for the plowboy yields
Red hips and haws, and sloes,
As plowing in the stubble fields
Rejoicing still he goes.

In winter in his homespun cap
Are holly berries gay;
Come rain, come snow, whatever may hap.

He whistles on his way.

Golden Wedding Delightful Event

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jurgens of Rock Falls, parents of Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber, of this city, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, Sept. 2nd, at their home in Rock Falls, the delightful event being attended by about seventy-five guests, mostly relatives.

The Jurgens home was gay with flowers and other decorations, for the greater part in golden shades. At noon the picnic dinner was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jurgens received many lovely gifts, including many gold pieces. After dinner a musical program was enjoyed. Mrs. Herbert Harms sang several delightful selections appropriate to a golden wedding day and was accompanied at the piano by Miss Helen Harms.

A most enjoyable feature of the musical program was the playing of many old time favorites on the violin by Mr. Jurgens, the bridegroom of fifty summers. The entire day was one of great pleasure to all attending who wished Mr. and Mrs. Jurgens many happy returns of the day. They have lived useful and well rounded lives and are highly esteemed and respected by their relatives and hosts of friends.

MATCH OR CONTRAST—
PARIS APPROVES BOTH—

Paris (AP)—Evening shoes which contrast with rather than match the evening dress are a new development. Shoes of sapphire blue, cerise, cherry red or emerald green crepe de chine are frequently worn with dresses of white or cream shades. Two shades of blue or pink and combinations of fuchsia purple and soft blues and Venetian pink with pale blue are chosen for dress and shoes, the shoes always being the darker color.

Chiffon handkerchiefs to match the shoes and occasionally a chiffon bandeau draped around the head are part of the new vogue of contrasts.

FALL SCARVES MADE OF KASHA AND VELVET—
Paris (AP)—The familiar three cornered scarf is not to dropped from the winter costume.

Advance dress showings include the scarf in many forms, often made from Kasha, wool georgette or printed velvet. Beige and flag red wool georgette and light weight kashas are a favorite form.

On wool sport dresses the scarf is sometimes knotted high about the throat, with the ends in front, cravat fashion. Velvet scarves are meant for afternoon wear and not for evening.

"Shower" Was Great Success Three Ways

On Thursday evening a bridal shower was held at the home of Miss Nellie Culver, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ewers, who were married about two weeks ago.

The living room at the Culver home was decorated in white festoons and Japanese lanterns, featuring a large white wedding bell, suspended in the center of the room. The dining room was decorated in pink and white festoons, with pink and white candles on the dining table.

The guests were in the darkened living room and when the innocent couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ewers came in to the room, they were showered with rice, and given a tin pan celebration in greeting. After the surprise was over the lights were turned on and dancing for a brief period, was enjoyed. Then the gifts were presented to the bride by little Loren Charles Wilson, who brought them into the room in his coaster wagon which was very prettily decorated in pink and white crepe paper. The gifts were wrapped in white and tied with pink ribbon. Some very nice gifts were received.

After the gifts were opened everyone was admitted to the dining room, where a large white cake, with a beautiful white dove ornament, graced the table. There were pink and white ribbons extending from beneath the cake, and each one drew a ribbon to which was attached a small envelope and one by one each guest opened the envelope and read what it contained, aloud. Some were wise sayings and proverbs, but two of them were different. This was the manner in which a double engagement was announced, and they provided a delightful announcement to all, made in this manner, the engagement of Miss Nellie Culver to Harold Horton, and also the engagement of Miss May Rosenbaum to Glenn Large.

The evening was then happily spent in singing and dancing and about 10 o'clock ice cream and cake were served, and at a later hour everyone sought their homes, wishing the young bride and bridegroom and the prospective brides and bridegrooms, happiness in advance.

PAWNEE BILL, THE WEST, AND MR. SHAKESPEARE.

Pawnee Bill, whose private name is Maj. Gordon W. Lillie, admits that he doesn't get any kick out of Shakespeare.

The picturesque Oklahoma frontiersman visited New York the other day, and reporters who interviewed him happened, somehow, to mention Shakespeare. Pawnee Bill recalled that he bought a set of Shakespeare some time ago and took it home to give it a trial. He dipped first into Romeo and Juliet; but when he had read half of it he chuckled the book across the room. Since then the set has been unopened.

But Pawnee Bill added that he likes to read, nevertheless.

"Now, when it comes to books about early western history, I'm there," he said. "I think people should study that sort of thing a whole lot more. Americans should be interested in the early history of their own country."

To our way of thinking, Pawnee Bill has good sense. The loves of the Capulets and Montagues are apt to seem rather far away and unreal to a modern American; but the story of the winning of the west springs from the native soil. It is, unquestionably, one of the greatest romances ever told. Reading about it and soaking in it do more for real, sturdy Americanism than all the tricks the hundred-percenters ever devised.

Pawnee Bill himself had a hand in the great romance. He had contemporaries, too; Buffalo Bill, for instance, and Kit Carson, and others whose names have already become legendary. They rode into the west when it was an unknown land, with great herds of buffalo roaming its aromatic plains, and bands of red savages riding along its water courses. They found it one vast wilderness, and in the space of a man's lifetime helped make it a land of peaceful farms, busy cities and teeming oil fields.

There is not, really, any story quite like it. Nothing has ever happened quite as spectacular, as amazing, as the transformation of the North American continent during the past century. Pawnee Bill was right. People should study that sort of thing a lot more. There is real meat in it.

And the fact that it's all intensely interesting isn't the only reason for recommending it. The story of pioneer days has a moral; it is an object lesson in courage, democracy, industry, vision. The men who won the west were ardent individualists, faithful lovers of freedom. They knew what their job was and were willing to spend their lives on it working and fighting to bring reality to their dreams.

It is a great story. Absorbing it will make your Americanism sturdier and finer.

TRAFFIC ON THE MISSOURI RIVER

It now appears that the Missouri river will soon become again what it was half a century ago—an important traffic artery.

Government experts who have finished a survey report that they find a large amount of potential business for a barge line, especially on that part of the river between St. Louis and Kansas City. Brig. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways Corporation, says 80 barges and six tugs will be put in service if Congress gives its approval.

There was a time when our rivers were our greatest highways. Then the railroads came along and nearly killed river traffic entirely. Now river traffic is reviving again; not because the railroads are failing, but because the country now is big enough to need both kinds of transportation.

WHAT CAUSES ACCIDENTS

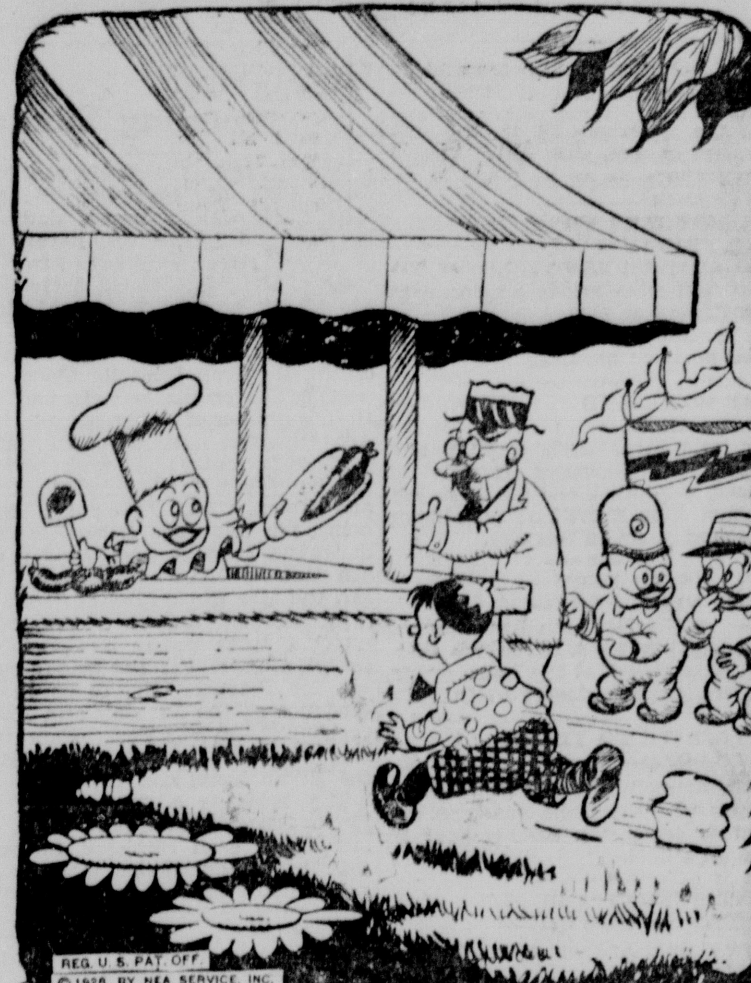

It is the little thing that causes accidents, according to Marcus A. Dow in a speech at a New York safety rally.

In traffic, Mr. Dow's figures show, major misdemeanors such as drunkenness and speeding cause a low per centage of the total number of accidents. Most of them come from little bits of carelessness—such, for instance, as carelessly backing up to get out of a parking space, or following too closely behind the car in front. In industry it is the same; boards left lying on factory floors with nails sticking up in them cause more serious injuries than boiler explosions. In private dwellings more people are killed by tripping and falling downstairs than are killed by fires.

We must learn to eliminate these seemingly unimportant bits of neglect. We can depend on law and regulations to guard us against the big things. But the little things we must take care of individually.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

Today the circus moves again. The Tinymites are busy when it's time to pack the circus cars, 'cause there is much to do. At last they finished for the day, and Scouty cried, "We're on our way. Tomorrow when we wake up we'll be in a town that's new."

So, as the train chug-chugged along, the little band broke into song. "We love this circus life," they sang. "It's thrilling as can be. Each day we please a circus crowd. Of course that makes us rather proud. 'Cause we're the ones who do the things that they all like to see."

"Hey, go to bed," somebody cried. And then to sleep the Tinymites tried. But they were all so restless that they lay there half the night, just talking and giggling, too. And then the next thing that they know, they all dropped off in slumberland, and 'woke at broad daylight."

"Twas hard to work beneath the sun, and Scouty shouted, "Hey, don't run while we are helping fix things up. Just take it easy now. 'Tis best to do just as we please." And so they worked away at ease. The circus tents, in spite of this, were soon put up somehow.

The trainer then heard Carpy cry, "There is one trick I'd like to try. 'What is it?" said the trainer. "You can do it, if you like." Just through a hoop," we Carpy said. "And I won't land upon my head. I'm sure that I can do it weel, 'cause I'm a clever tyke."

So, when the big tent show began, into a ring brave Carpy ran. He hopped upon a monstrous dog, while someone held a hoop. The dog raced madly round the track, while Carpy stood upon his back. And then he jumped right through the hoop, and did a loop-the-loop.

When Carpy's big hoop act was done, he told the bunch 'twas heaps of fun. Said he, "The St. Bernard was fine, and didn't run away. I rode upon him very fast and jumped the hoop as we went past. I guess the children liked it 'cause all yelled out, 'Hurra!'"

Then Carpy took the dog outside, and thanked him for the dandy ride. "Come on with me," he shouted, "and we'll find some bones to eat." Across the circus grounds they went until they reached the old cook tent. Here Carpy found some tasty bones. The dog thought them a treat.

Two other Tines gathered 'round. "Where's Clowny? He cannot be found," said Scouty. "I have looked for him most every place I know. He last was seen within the tent, and then he jumped an off he went. I'm just a wee bit worried, 'cause he may have left the show."

Then Carpy said, "Come on, let's look. Right near at hand there is a brook. Perhaps he has gone swimming. If he has we'll join right in." The circus trainer then came near, and said, "There is no cause for fear. Don't start to look for Clowny for I know where he has been."

"Just hurry up, and come with me and you will very shortly see." The Tines gladly followed him across the circus lot. "He's in that tent," the trainer said, while pointing to a tent ahead. "You see he's selling hot dogs, and he likes it, like as not."

And, sure enough, the man was right, for Clowny soon popped into sight. He stood behind the hot dog stand and seemed to feel real proud. "Hello!" he shouted to the bunch. "Step right up here and have some lunch." And then he started crying, "Hot dog sandwiches," real loud.

EXTRAVAGANCE IN GOVERNMENT GIVEN AS A TAX TROUBLE

Civic Federation of Chicago Gives Views On Taxes

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Herewith is the sixth of a series of articles in which officials of state-wide organizations present, through The Associated Press their versions of "What's Wrong with Taxation in Illinois?"

The Associated Press.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Attributing the present condition of taxes in Illinois to inequality in the distribution of taxes and governmental extravagance resulting in "tax bills beyond reason," the Civic Federation of Chicago believes the taxpayer is "beginning to recognize the cumulative burdens being heaped upon him."

Douglas Sutherland, secretary of and spokesman for the federation declared that "tax-payers should not allow themselves to be lulled by tax-spenders into condoning increased expenditures." His statement follows:

"There are two principal evils in property taxation in Illinois: First, inequality in distribution of burdens; second, extravagance in government resulting in tax bills which have increased beyond reason or excuse."

"Inequality in the distribution of property tax burdens falls under two heads, namely: first, inequality in assessment and taxation of those values now required by our State constitution to be assessed and taxed under the uniform general property rule as personal property and second, inequality in assessment of real estate values."

"To deal effectively and at the same time equitably with those tremendous values of modern commerce and industry which now fall under and in some cases actually suffer from, the menace of our antiquated and unworkable personal property tax, present constitutional limitation which forbid the legislature to give constructive relief, must be removed by an amendment to the revenue article. This is the view of all recognized economists and of most men who have had practical experience in the field of taxation. Such amendment would permit of simplification as well as greater efficiency and justice in taxation of these values."

With the problem of inequality of real property assessment the General Assembly is already in a position to deal, and no amendment of the Constitution is prerequisite to curing this evil, although, undoubtedly, the practical necessity of arbitrary and extra-legal discretion in personal assessment has had a bad psychological effect upon assessing officers in dealing with real property assessments. Perhaps the greatest difficulty in the assessment of real property is in the fact that the assessing machinery is cumbersome and that responsibility for results is hopelessly decentralized. The state tax commission has five members, where three members (the number originally created during the Lowden administration) would do the work much more effectively. In the several counties, valuations are assessed by a considerable number of men in each county working independently of one another. The county treasurer is ex-officio supervisor of assessments in most counties, but his authority is purely nominal and in a few instances is much regarded by the assessors. One county assessor working throughout the year in each county with a board of review sitting for a brief period with power only to hear complaints and to bring individual cases of under or over-assessment into line, would produce infinitely better results than the present system. Each assessor should have the necessary, trained assistants and use modern methods, including understandable publicity through public maps and plat. By friendly cooperation the State Tax Commission could do much to promote uniformity among the counties."

"Development of the functions which government must perform and even more the development of rival political machines which have used their organized power to strengthen and extend themselves by placing their workers on the public payrolls, creating unnecessary positions and requiring little or no service from large number of those thus put to 'work,' accounts for a large part of the unnecessary increase in public expenditures and the consequent increase in tax bills. In addition there has been looseness in the awarding of public contracts and the purchases and use of public supplies. This inducement cannot with fairness be universally applied. It tends to apply in the larger communities and where ever expenditures have increased more rapidly than general conditions warrant, it is safe to say that some situation like this has existed."

"With the increase in number of public employees and public work a constant and active influence has come into being for increased public expenditures. The taxpayer has been slow to awaken to this situation and often has been cajoled into supporting 'just this little increase' and 'just that little increase,' but now he is at least beginning to recognize the cumulative burdens that are being heaped on him, and it is to be hoped that henceforth he will make his influence felt for economy in government."

"Taxpayers should not be lulled by tax-spenders into condoning increased appropriations and tax rates on the theory that their individual assessments can so be reduced that they will not feel the increased burden that others must carry. This is the beginning of a vicious circle that ultimately means lower assessments but higher tax bills for all. Neither should they be cajoled by such assessing officials as desire to retain the status quo, into directing their attention exclusively to a reduction in tax spending. Economy in government and equality in distribution of its burdens must go hand in hand."

John Walker In Labor Day Talk

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Prosperity for America depends upon adequate wages for workers, President John H. Walker of the Illinois Federation of Labor said in his Labor day speech here today. "If that is withheld," he added, "nothing can be done to bring prosperity."

"Wages and income can solve even the farm problem," he said. "There is a home market for ninety per cent of our country's output. What we export should be important in comparison, and our home market should be made of utmost importance. Important for manufacturers, farmers, and all other workers."

"When there is prosperity, our merchants can sell goods and professional men their services. Workers will have wages to pay. If they do not, industry will be idle and manufacturers, farmers, merchants and professional men will all suffer with the worker."

"Consequently the most important problem now as always the most vital and one whose solution is most needed now, is that of sufficient wages be provided for industrial workers as well as for workers on the farm. 'Other matters will adjust themselves.'"

MAINE'S EARLY ELECTION WILL BE A BAROMETER

Politicians are Always Watching Maine Elections For Straus

By NELSON G. MORTON (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Portland, Me.—(AP)—Maine, still clinging to its custom of electing its state officers and members of congress nearly two months ahead of the other states, is preparing to give the politicians their quadrennial opportunity to expatiate on the significance of the outcome on the national election in November. The election is Monday, September 10.

Sen. Frederick Hale, republican, who is chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, is a candidate for re-election for a third term. Three of the four congressmen from this state, all of whom are republicans, also seek re-election. Herbert E. Holmes, a Lewiston attorney, is Senator Hale's democratic opponent.

The contest for governor lies between William Tudor Gardiner, republican, and Edward C. Moran, Jr., of Rockland, democrat. Gardiner, a lawyer, is a former speaker of the Maine house of representatives and a world war veteran. Moran is a businessman.

As usual in a presidential election year, national party leaders have given considerable attention to the Maine campaign and speakers from other states have been brought here to urge the voters to consider the "moral effect" of their balloting upon the country as a whole. The popular designation of Maine as a "barometer state" persists in the face of cold facts. Regardless of the result of state elections, Maine has given a plurality for every republican candidate for president except in 1912 when Wilson carried the state.

Beginning with Hannibal Hamlin, later vice-president, who was elected governor in 1856, Maine has elected a republican governor in all but four instances.

Maine has sent only two democrats to the senate. One, Charles F. Johnson, was elected in 1910. The other, Obadiah Gardner, was appointed in 1911 to complete an unexpired term. With few exceptions the state's delegation to the national house of representatives has been solidly republican.

Two years ago Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, republican, was re-elected for a second term by a majority of 20,000 over Ernest L. McLean, democrat, the vote being: Brewster 100,776, McLean 80,748. In 1924, the last presidential election year, Brewster received a majority of 36,655 over William R. Pattangall.

Senator Hale's margin over his democratic opponent in 1922 was 26,366. At the last senatorial election in Maine, a special election in November, 1926, to fill a vacancy, Arthur R. Gould, republican received a majority of 48,273 over Fulton J. Badman, democrat.

In a recent campaign speech Senator Hale said:

"It is not enough for Maine to go republican by a small majority. If we give a majority of 10, 15 or 20 thousand votes, the rest of the United States is going to say we have lost our grip. Maine must go republican by more than 40,000."

RAILROADS ARE A BENEFIT TO NATION'S FARMS

Letter from President of Illinois Central Railroad

Railroads contribute to the farmer's market in several ways. They distribute to points of manufacture and consumption the necessities of life which he produces. They perform a service that makes possible the prosperous existence of the great industrial and commercial centers, which are the main consuming markets for farm products. Moreover, the employees of the railroads and their families are themselves an important market for farm products.

The railway family of the United States consists of approximately 1,800,000 employees and 4,200,000 dependents. This large family spends in the neighborhood of $1,800,000,000 annually for farm commodities and their manufactured products. Seventeen million acres of crop land and 20,000,000 acres of pasture land are required to supply these wants.

The railway family provides a consuming market for around 30,000,000 bushels of wheat, corn, rye and other cereals. 15,000,000 bushels of potatoes, 122,000,000 pounds of tomatoes, 43,000,000 pounds of beans, vast quantities of other vegetables, and 171,000,000 pounds of fresh and prepared fruits annually. This family consumes annually around 938,000,000 pounds of beef, veal, mutton and other packinghouse products, and 121,000,000 pounds of poultry. More than 16,000,000 hens are required to supply this family with eggs. The railway family uses dairy products that are equivalent of 4,639,000,000 pounds of milk. This is the annual output of 1,229,000 dairy cows—more than there are in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas combined. Many other items could be named. Wool, cotton, leather, sugar, nuts, honey, syrup and tobacco are a few more.

All in all, railway workers and their families constitute a great consuming market for the farmer's products. Regular employment at good wages enables them to make these large purchases of farm products and thus contribute materially to the farmer's market.

The Soldier Cells of the Human Body

By E. B. KRUMBHAR, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

Member Gorgas Memorial

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Gorgas Memorial, which has its headquarters at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

The commonest cause of human disease has always been the effect of harmful bacteria multiplying in and at the expense of the body. Through countless ages the invaded body has developed methods of fighting these tiny invaders, which in the vast majority of cases are successful in their results.

When the ameba—a single cell that is usually considered the lowest form of animal life—comes in contact with harmful objects that cannot be avoided by flight, it disposes of them in the same way as it does its nourishment; namely, by absorbing and digesting them. This process is known to scientists as "phagocytosis." When higher forms of animals meet the problem of disposing of harmful bodies that have gained entrance, usually germs, their means of disposing of them are more complicated but include the same method as the lowly ameba. No gun their dirty work than the body sooner have the harmful germs be cells that have specialized in this kind of defense are irresistibly attracted to them. The first to answer the call rejoice in the lengthy but illuminating title of "neutrophils polymorphonuclear leucocytes."

To Greek scholars no further explanation is necessary; others had better join the majority and call them "polys" for short. These are called the shock troops by some; the first alarm fire brigade by others. At any rate they rapidly crawl from the nearest blood vessel toward the actively multiplying germs, and eat up as many as possible, often dying themselves in the process, but being constantly reinforced from the central armory in the bone marrow. Other body cells—the lymphocytes—reinforce the shock troops and even become the most important fighters in some of the more chronic diseases; and still others—the large mononuclears—come along more slowly to play the fensives of the great war. These are part of the "moppers up" in the of the cells which Mechnikoff, the great Russian scientist of the Pasteur Institute, called "macrophages," or large eaters; while the "polys" were the "microphages" or small eaters.

The macrophages have a consuming and omnivorous appetite, that even extends to dust, coal pigment, broken down cells of the body, and so on, so that they are well called the scavengers of the body. These three kinds of cells and the juices they secrete are our most valuable defense against infections. Together they constitute the "leucocytes" or white cells of the blood, and as their number increase in the blood if infection is present, a leucocyte count becomes an important diagnostic procedure. The surgeon's knife will help in mechanical difficulties are contributory and a few medicines, such as quinine, arsenic, and disinfectants, will kill certain germs, but without the protection of our soldier cells, mankind would long ago have succumbed to our invisible foes.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"MAN" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 2.

The Golden Text was from Job 32:8, "There is a spirit in man; and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding." Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? Therefore let no man glory in men. For all things are yours: and ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's" (1 Cor. 3:16, 21, 23). The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is never God, but spiritual man, made in God's likeness, reflects God. In this scientific reflection the ego and the Father are inseparable" (p. 70).

New Organization Takes Toombs Bank

Chicago, Sept. 1.—(AP)—A new bank has been organized to succeed the Devereux Bank, which was formerly headed by Roy C. Toombs, now testifying before a referee in bankruptcy regarding missing funds of the International Life Insurance Company of St. Louis, of which he was president, and his Chicago brokerage house of Toombs and Daily. The new suburban bank, it was announced by state auditor Oscar Nelson, will assume $700,000 in liabilities of the State Bank and Trust Company, which was closed shortly after Toombs had resigned as its president. At that time it was feared his financial difficulties might cause a "run" on the bank.

HOWARD SAVAGE MARRIED Chicago, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Howard P. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion, and Miss Mary Van Oss, a nurse, were married today at a quiet ceremony in St. Mary's church. They left for Atlanta, Ga., on their honeymoon trip. Mr. Savage was a widower.

PETTERS TAKE WALLOP. Providence—The pastime of youth, petting, has taken another wallop. This time it's Commissioner of Agriculture Harry R. "But the petters have no regard for forest conservation."

WHIRLWIND

by ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, beautiful and reckless, became engaged to CRAIG NEWHALL, who is quite all that a young man should be, in order to please her father, who she worshipped. But Mr. Thorne died before she could tell him. Shortly afterward her brother, TAD, married VALERIE WEST, selfish and frivolous but inordinately pretty.

Sybil goes to Nianno to open the family's summer place for the homecoming of the newlyweds. And at night she wanders alone to the beach where JOHN LAWRENCE, the man she still loves, first kissed her. It was shortly after that glorious night that John went away to war and never returned.

Craig finds her there, trysting with the dead. They talk of love and life, and Craig urges her to marry him. She tells him she cannot make any decision because her life is so full of perplexities, and she asks if he would mind if she went away with MABEL BLAKE, to think things over. They have planned to go to Cuba together, but Sybil assures Craig that she will not go unless he is willing.

"The devil you won't!" he retorts. "You'll do whatever you want—and you darn well know it."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

"DON'T buy a stitch," counseled Mabel. "The shops in Havana are next to Paris. You can buy importations for a song."

Their facetious friends besieged them with importunities to "bring home some liquor."

Valerie wanted a Spanish shawl. "White, or cream-colored, spotted all over with roses, and awfully vampy looking." And "a pair of Spanish pumps with red heels."

Mrs. West had heard that Cuba was a wonderful place to buy linens. She hinted largely for a luncheon cover, and suggested that Valerie's collection be supplemented by a few pieces that Sybil could surely pick up reasonably.

Tad shoved a handful of bills in his sister's bag.

"For Val's shawl and things," he explained.

"See here, Tad," exploded Sybil, "you can't afford to trick that wife of yours out like a circus rider. Lord, the girl got clothes enough in Paris to last her a year."

"Gosh, Sib, you don't think I'm going to be a piker with Val, do you? What's a couple of hundred dollars, for Pete's sake!"

"It's a couple of hundred that you can't afford to spend, Tad Thorne—and you know it."

"What's the difference?"

"Val's dreadfully spoiled, Tad, and you're pampering her like a baby. What does she think you are?"

"Lay off Valerie, will you, Sybil!" Tad spoke sharply.

"Oh, all right. It's your funeral."

QUICK tears sprang to Sybil's eyes. It was so tragically easy to cry those days. When people were sharp with her, or very tender, she felt the same absurd impulse to weep.

She stepped to the roses on the library table, ashamed to let Tad see her foolish tears. She was idiotically jealous of Valerie. Hurt, like a child, because Tad championed his bride against her.

"Gee, Tad, I'm touchy. I didn't mean to pop off like that."

His arm across her shoulders made things right.

"You're shot to pieces, Sib. All I tried out. This trip's going to be just the thing for you. Wish to the Lord I was going along."

"You could if you weren't married."

She could have bitten her tongue off when the words were out. The door had opened and Valerie was

"Lay off Valerie, will you, Sybil?" Tad spoke sharply. "Oh, all right. It's your funeral." Quick tears sprang to her eyes.

when she saw them. "Now everybody'll know we're a couple of old maids!"

"Goodbye, goodbye. . . . Be good. Be sure you look for linens. . . . Goodbye, goodbye."

At last they were off—all but Craig.

"Hurry, dear—they're pulling up the gang plank."

"One more kiss, Sybil. . . . Oh, my dear, I love you."

"Craigie, darling—HURRY!"

Mab was on deck, calling to the others from the rail. Excitedly, they were clamoring for Craig.

"Where is that boy! Sakes alive, he'll get taken away, sure as you're a foot high. Craig! CRAIG!"

"A REAL one, dearest. . . . Ah!"

"There, old sweetheart! And a flock of them when I get home again. Now run, you crazy nut. Craigie, you look as if you'd lost your last friend!"

"Do you believe in hunches, Sib?"

"No, darling, I don't. But I've got a powerful good one that you'll be on your way to Havana if you don't clear out of here."

"I've a dreadful feeling that this is really goodbye. Sybil, look at me. You know I'm crazy about you. And that goes, whatever happens. Don't forget, Sib."

"MY DEAR," Mab told her later. "Craig made that dock by half an inch. I never saw anything like it in all my life. The prettiest jump you ever laid your eyes on. That boy sure is an athlete. Some girls have all the luck."

She looked at Sybil appraisingly.

ETHICAL THEORIES AND PRACTICAL DIETETICS

The dominant man of today is one who not only lives a virtuous life, but is also keen enough to take advantage of modern progress along scientific lines. Although the inspired teachings of moral conduct have not changed in any degree throughout the countless centuries, it is most assuredly not true that man's material environment and opportunities for advancement have remained the same.

No new natural laws have been produced by man. All material enjoyment and accomplishment have come from a better application of the never-changing laws of nature. The present hour alone is man's. Here he must work, but it is for him to plan his path forward into the future.

There is no time within historical records where the average life of man approaches the age of fifty-eight as it does today. Man has had the ingenuity and cunning to use the natural forces to the fullest extent, and the highest civilization will only be developed when the laws of life are most fully understood.

There is practically no food used on the modern table which in any way resembles those foods used by primitive man. Those tribes living today in a primitive state have a very hard time to obtain enough food to keep alive, and many of these tribes are literally dying of starvation.

The ruling nations of today are those who have profited by utilizing the mechanical forces, and by developing their food supply so that it is both varied and plentiful.

We should not confuse philosophical or moral teachings with those which we believe belong wholly in the material scientific realm. Man's natural food centuries ago was no doubt dictated entirely by what he could secure at that time. He dreamed of more food and better, and through experimentation with the laws of nature, his dreams have been made to come true. It would be unwise for us to go back to the primitive, undeveloped food, as for us to go back from the automobile, aeroplane and railroad, to the horse and buggy. If your ethics demand that, why not be consistent and refuse to ride on railroad cars or refuse to use electricity?

With the multiplicity and variety of ideas about health and diet, many people are hopelessly confused by being confronted with so many theories. This food problem has been made more and more difficult by the religious and ethical aspects which have been followed by some of the investigators. If one is a firm believer in some particular religion, he is apt to be strongly influenced by references to food found in the text books of his own religion or ethical philosophy. It is a great handicap to be bound to dietetic suggestions in such inspired writings whose principal teachings must be considered to be those evoking good moral conduct.

Human nature has not changed very greatly since the story of creation was written, and those moral principles which were true then have remained the same helpful doctrines to assist us in living upright lives today. Nevertheless, man would be an unhappy primitive creature if it were not for the development along the lines of scientific research.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION—Mrs. H. K. J. writes: "I am interested in your answers to questions. What would you advise for a cough of about fifteen years' standing? Worse in damp weather and in winter. Started with the grippe. Never leaves me entirely, but gets better at times. Is not any worse than it was ten years ago. Never have colds in my head, and rarely cough anything loose. Different doctors say it is bronchial. Doesn't seem to break my health, but certainly is annoying."

ANSWER—Some people have a formation of excessive mucus which occurs only in one particular part. It is apparent that yours forms in the bronchial tubes and not on the other mucous membranes. Skin elimination is not as good in the winter or in damp weather, so more elimination occurs through the mucous membranes. If you will increase skin elimination by frequent bathing and through taking vigorous exercise, I am sure you will no longer be troubled with the persistent cough.

QUESTION—N. C. asks: "Is Bonnie clabber or clabbered whole milk healthful and nutritious for an elderly person who dearly loves it? Would an elderly person who craves it be likely to be benefitted by going on a diet of this kind?"

ANSWER—Clabbered whole milk is a very good food, and one could live on this diet for many years without needing any other food. If green vegetables are taken with the clabber (about three quarts used per day) it makes a very well balanced diet but so simple that most people would not be willing to live on this diet exclusively for any length of time.

QUESTION—Mrs. R. K. writes: "My child was given toxin anti-toxin a year ago. Do you advise having the test given the child to prove if he is immune from diphtheria?"

ANSWER—The test you refer to has a very doubtful value, and many of those who formerly advocated it have discontinued its use. Keep your child clean inside and out, and you need have no fear of his developing diphtheria. Send for my article "Diphtheria—Its Cause and Cure" care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

SEPTEMBER SUN STILL STRONG

In the vast realm of space we can observe some fixed point of light—the stars. One of these, our sun, is so near that it appears to be a ball of flame. Although the sun has a bulk of one and one-fourth million times as great as the earth, it appears relatively small to us. This is because of the tremendous distance between us and the sun. H. G. Wells gives an interesting example. He states that if a bullet were fired from a Maxim gun at the sun, maintaining its muzzle velocity unimpeded, it would take seven long years to reach its destination.

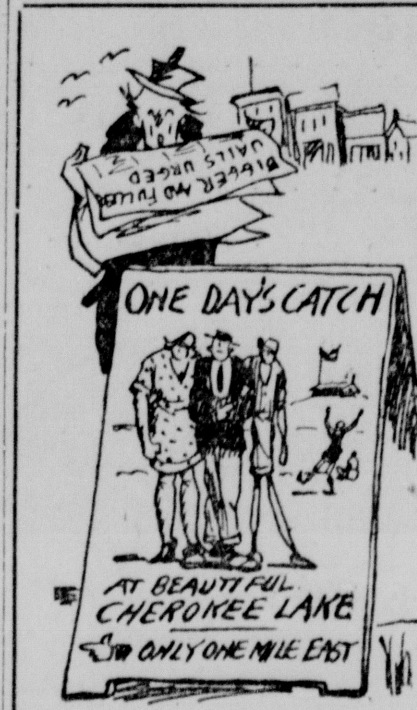

We cannot actually see the sun; we only see clouds of incandescent metallic vapors. These intensely hot substances vibrate with such force that they throw ether, of which space is composed, into a vibration that is carried to the earth. Upon striking the earth and material objects, these vibrations make themselves felt to us as warmth and light. Without an atmosphere to retain this warmth, this world would be a chilly place.

Sunshine is essential to life. The sun is the source of every form of energy that our complicated civilization has learned to use. Even the energy from our food is energy from sunshine that has been stored up by plants.

The sun has a remarkable effect upon brighter or our disposition, as well as our climates. On cloudy days we feel gloomy; when the sun shines we are cheerful. The barren wastes of the frigid lands in the far north are caused by a lack of sunshine; the tropical vegetation of the warm zones could only grow because of the abundance of warmth.

The importance of the sun was realized even in prehistoric days, and one of the first religions of human beings was the sun worship which was based on the life-giving forces of the sun.

People who are weak and old feel comforted by basking in the sunlight. Science has discovered that sunlight stimulates the growth of children. Even many of our foods when exposed to the ultra-violet rays of the sun become more nourishing. It has long been known that cod liver oil has some property in it which prevents rickets, and science now believes that is only the effect of stored up sunlight which the codfish secures from small sea plants. Scientists have named this

President Coolidge 'll soon find out that runin' a great nation an' findin' a job fer his son are two mighty different propositions. property vitamin D, and have produced it artificially in many other foods by exposing them to the ultra-violet rays.

The stimulating effects of the sunlight upon the body are the result of the ultra-violet rays which influence the multiplication of the red blood cells and increase the body's ability to absorb calcium.

Even though the September sun is not as warm as the summer sun, in many parts of the North American continent the ultra-violet rays which it bathes the earth are just as valuable when applied to the human body. During this season sunbathing can be used with great benefit without the danger of overheating.

not make a good combination from the standpoint of physiological chemistry.

QUESTION—Reader asks: "Is it possible to find out the parentage of a child by a blood test? If not, is there any other way of proving same?"

ANSWER—There is no accurate way of determining relationship by blood tests, although many physicians have advanced claims that they have discovered methods of proving such relationship as a child to its parents. My investigations of these claims have always shown them to be exaggerated and not accurate.

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
 The annual flock of Labor Day double-headers has been written into the records to the satisfaction of Miller Huggins but to the unmitigated chagrin of Bill McKechnie and Connie Mack.

Huggins' crew of New York Yankees got only an even break with the Boston Red Sox yesterday but added a game to their lead when Connie's Philadelphia Athletics slipped a couple of cogs at Washington and went down twice before the Senators' attack.

McKechnie could see no humor in the fact that his St. Louis Cardinals, setting the pace in the National League, were upset twice by the Cincinnati Reds, while the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates were cleaning up double bills against the Phillies and the Chicago Cubs respectively.

The figures today showed the Yankees two and a half games in advance of the Athletics in the American League chase, while the Cardinals' advantage in the National remained unchanged at four and a half games. The important effect of Labor Day results in John Heydler's circuit was that the Giants, Pirates and Reds were reinstated as pennant contenders when twenty-four hours earlier it appeared as though all three had shot their bolt.

The Cardinals gave the Reds a terrific battle in the first game before they went down, 6 to 5 in the 11 innings, but were overwhelmed in the nightcap, 8 to 2.

The Giants moved past the Cubs into second place by knocking over the Phillies, 4 to 3 and 9 to 3.

In a savage battling mood, the Pirates crushed the Cubs in the morning game at Forbes Field, 16 to 1, and then played steady ball behind Ray Kremer's cleftive pitching to win the second, 6 to 3. The Corsairs rolled 19 solid drives off Charley Root and three relief pitchers in the morning encounter while Erwin Brame was turning back the invaders with only five hits, one of the m ahomer by "Kiki" Cuyler.

It took some tall stepping by the Yankees to get as good as an even break against the Red Sox. Huggins' somewhat tamed maulers just barely earned the decision in the opener, 8 to 7, before going down before Russell and Morris in the second, 4 to 3. The Red Sox got 15 hits off four Yankee pitchers in the opener, one of them being Jack Rothbeck's homer with the bases loaded in the fourth inning. The second game was a pitcher's battle between Henry Johnson and Jack Russell.

The Senators outplayed the Athletics to win both games at Washington, 6 to 1 and 5 to 4. Hadley held Mack's tribe to six hits and fanned eight men in the opener, outpitching Howard Ehmke by a wide margin.

The Brooklyn Dodgers were rained out of their twin bill with the Boston Braves.

The Chicago White Sox vaulted from seventh to fifth place when they sank the Detroit Tigers twice, 5 to 2 and 7 to 5, while the Browns were beating Cleveland in both ends of the double header at St. Louis.

Adkins outpitched Vic Sorrel in the opener but it took some heavy artillery work by Sox batsmen to pull the second game out of the fire in the late innings.

It was a case of good and bad baseball at St. Louis. The Browns made full use of their eight hits to capture the opener, 5 to 3, but the second game developed into a slugfest between Dan Howley's men won by the football score of 16 to 10.

Manush, getting six hits during the day, brought his season's total to 200, the first batsman in either league to accomplish this feat. Paul Waner of Pittsburgh Pirates, who leads the National League in this department, also got six in his team's two games with the Cubs and ran his season's total to 198.

CUBA TO MEXICO

It costs $16.25 to talk from Cuba to Mexico, the charge being based on the air line mileage of 1805 miles, to Havana via Key West and Laredo to Mexico City.

So little does distance mean to present day telephony that it is interesting to know that the regular routing for such messages is from Havana via Key West, Miami, Jacksonville, Washington, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas, San Antonio and Laredo to Mexico City, a distance of 4745 miles.
